QA Engineer. Salary: 27 – 32k*

Corporation Pop is an award-winning digital innovation agency. We deliver strategic, thoughtful and innovative design and technology solutions that respond to user needs. We are well known for our work in immersive technologies and recently were listed by Clutch, the international and impartial review site, as one of the top 15 mobile app development companies in the UK. In everything we do we aim for innovation and originality. In everything we deliver we promise reliability and effectiveness. We value creativity and encourage experimentation.

It is for these reasons that companies like Future PLC, Channel 4, the BBC, the NHS and Live Nation choose to work with us to deliver exciting and often ground-breaking projects across a range of media and devices.

The role:
We are looking for an experienced QA Tester to join our rapidly growing team. This is an exciting opportunity to work as part of a highly experienced team across all our projects, ranging from Android and iOS apps, to heavy load websites and multi-player gaming environments. We want our next hire to be somebody who can work with our Scrum Masters and Operations Director to strengthen our QA processes and improve the service we offer our clients.

It is essential that you have:
- experience developing, executing and maintaining test plans across all projects
- experience writing test plans that cover both functional and non-functional specifications
- experience of writing test cases against story-based requirements
- worked closely with the project management, development and UX design team to understand how user stories are being implemented
- pro-actively shared test plans as part of Agile process to aid development
- tested across a range of desktop and mobile devices, and operating systems
- logged and track defects on the company's issue tracking system (JIRA)
- created and managed documentation on test results for each project

It is highly desirable if you have:
- 2+ years of commercial testing experience
- a good knowledge of Agile processes and understanding of where QA fits
- an ability to refine requirements and define acceptance criteria across a range of applications: web-based, apps and games
- a pragmatic approach, you can balance quality, client expectations and budget
- good understanding of the development lifecycle
- impeccable attention to detail and great verbal and written communication skills
- experience of setting up or running automated test suites

In return we will provide:
- a great working studio environment (with roof terrace) in Manchester's Northern Quarter
- a friendly, supportive and highly experienced team
- 35 hour flexi-time working week
- flexible 'work anywhere' approach
- up to 30 days holiday plus bank holidays
- ride-to-work, profit-share and referral bonus schemes

Please send your CV (with links to recent projects) and covering letter explaining why you're right for this job to jobs@corporationpop.co.uk. We are keen to appoint to this position as soon as possible and will close applications as soon as we see a CV that excites us.
